It's for everyone...

Chiropractic is an approved and regulated profession. Chiropractors take your medical history and diagnose your problem before treatment and are specialists who use their hands or non-invasive equipment to treat your condition. They take into account your specific symptoms, your lifestyle and your personal circumstances, in order to help you to manage your problem.

Your Chiropractor's aim is to manage any skeletal, musculoskeletal, neurological or neuromuscular condition that is treatable by chiropractic intervention. Chiropractic treatment and manipulation is not just clinically recommended for low back pain (UK and European Clinical Guidelines for the Management of Acute Low Back Pain, 1996, 1999 and 2001) but also for other conditions, such as:

- Neck and shoulder problems
- Joint and posture and muscle problems
- Leg pain and sciatica
- Sports injuries.

Chiropractic treatment may also provide improvement in some types of headaches including Migraine, plus infant colic and asthma.

There is a wealth of research evidence to support the benefit of chiropractic intervention for both acute and chronic disorders of the musculoskeletal system and it is illegal for anyone in the UK to use the title 'chiropractor' unless they are registered with the General Chiropractic Council (GCC).

The GCC is required by law to ensure that registered chiropractors have a recognised qualification, to monitor standards of chiropractic training, to set standards of practice and to conduct and deal with any complaints.

75,000 chiropractic patients per day in the UK can't be wrong!

The CPA has promoted chiropractic treatment since the association was first formed in 1966. Initially the CPA worked towards chiropractic becoming registered and a recognised form of treatment. The association now continues to work towards chiropractic treatment being available throughout the UK and as a patient or potential patient, the CPA is your representative.

The CPA is not just a lobbying organisation, we also aim to:

- Achieve NHS recognition for Chiropractic treatment.
- Provide informed advice and information to the general public and the medical profession.
- Build awareness of chiropractic services and the benefits of treatment in a way that is both reactive and proactive.
- Support chiropractic research.
- Assist chiropractic educational institutions.

What it will mean to you...

Our membership package is specifically developed to benefit chiropractic patients and your support in turn will benefit chiropractic treatment.

Through membership of the CPA you will be supporting and assisting the further work needed to ensure people are informed about the treatment and options available. It will also be essential for us to ensure chiropractic treatment becomes available through the NHS.

How you will benefit...

- "Back Chat" - A regular publication which will update you on our progress, give essential treatment information and details of specialist products to support your treatment programme.
- Member area - Through our website there will be an exclusive area for members to share experiences, get advice on treatment and receive exclusive facts on chiropractic progress.
- Signposting Service - A helpline which can direct you to your nearest chiropractor.
- Membership Advice - A web and telephone based information service, which can provide you with information on treatment meaning you can make an informed choice.
- Discounts on chiropractic treatment at a list of practices.

Make sure your interests are represented, join us now...
